“ I'm so sad to hear of your passing. You were such a sweet, fun and creative friend. We will miss you here but I'm sure your husband is there giving you a big hug. I know it's been hard for you without him. <3

“ We were instant friends at the Burbank YMCA Camp Earl Anna oh so many years ago. We were young teenagers just having fun. Over the years we’ve laughed, cried, shared sweet memories, and concerns. I remember sending you Garfield comic strips from the newspaper. You adored John your sweetheart and love your children to the moon and back and beyond. Alison, you are sweet, kind, talented, and such a beautiful human being. I know you are free of pain, reunited with your sweetheart, and watching over your children. You are loved by so many Alison. I love you. Until we meet again my friend, my sister.

“ In many ways, Alison was my hero! She had an indomitable spirit, and pressed forward in spite of challenges that would have crushed someone else. We became friends when I moved into her neighborhood. We visited regularly, sharing our ups and downs, hopes and hang-ups. I came to love her kids, her dogs and her sense of humor. She came to appreciate my art, collecting several pieces, which strengthened our bond, even more.

Once, to somehow send my love and encouragement with her as she spent time in the hospital, I brought her a teddy bear. It was meant to communicate everything I wanted to say and to do, but couldn’t, because of my own limitations. I wish there was something like that teddy bear I could have sent with her on this latest journey. Hopefully, she still knows how I love her, and admire all the good that she is.

It’s good that she doesn’t have to keep “enduring” such heavy troubles. It’s good that she doesn’t have to miss John, any more. And it is good that she has left us with such wonderful memories. It’s ok; but it still hurts to say goodbye.
