“ Of all the things I'll remember about my beautiful sister-in-law, Brendin, the thing that strikes me the most is how generous she was. Every year she worked tirelessly on personal service projects that culminated in hundreds of blankets, pillows, warm winter hats and mittens, toiletries and gifts being given anonymously to families in her community. Some may not know this because she didn't seek recognition for the good that she did. One year in the course of serving a family in Provo, I was shocked to find that the two tiny boys I watched for the family had no winter coats and the mom had walked them to me in sub-zero winds, so that the baby's hands were bright red and windburned. I quickly set about getting some coats for them, and when Brendin and our other family members heard the story, we decided to be their secret Santas that Christmas. Brendin spent their family's entire Christmas bonus ($700!) on the family we were serving! We rallied all the troops and pulled off an amazing Christmas for those kids. I'll never forget Brendin's unhesitating generosity because when she gave, she gave all. This Christmas, the good that I do will not be in my name, but in hers.

Brendin, I'm so glad that I got to know you for the time we had and to be married into the same wonderful family. Shane, myself and our kids will be there for Todd and your precious children - no one can replace you, but we will try to ease whatever burden we can. I love you and will forever regard you as, simply, sister.

With love,

Trish

“ Brendin was the best friend you could ever ask for! She was always helping me with my special needs son, even though she had 3 kids of her own. She helped me through my divorce, & she was always there for me, regardless of what she was going through in her own life. She was an amazing example of how to persevere through trials, & she was always helping and serving others. Her husband and kids were her world, & she loved and cherished them dearly. My first memory of Brendin is a shy, quiet girl in the Sunset 10th ward. I lost touch with her after they split the wards, but later reconnected with her in 2009. Her son Brayden and my son Caleb were in early intervention together, & Brendin and I became best friends. I'll miss her smile, & her love.
