“ It is with a heavy heart and many tears that I am here to honor the memory and life of my beloved brother in law, Court. What can you say about a person who lights up the room as soon as they enter it? That was Court, with his winning smile and hilarious personality, he made you feel special and important in his life. My fondest memory was the summer Christy and I spent with Judy and Court in 1971. We had just graduated from High School and having the opportunity to go somewhere and have fun was too much to pass up. They made us feel wanted and loved at a time we needed it most. I will never forget the raft trip down the Green River and my very first pair of jeans. Levi button fly! I loved those and wore them until they turned to rags! We had pulled over to the side of the river for a rest and eats and I was sitting by the water swinging my feet back and forth and managed to kick a bunch of mud into Court's face, who was still sitting in the boat. He let out a big laugh, (have the picture to prove it) and then he and another guy in the boat proceeded to toss me in the 40 degree water! Ha...good times! Love you Court forever and ever...You make us laugh even now!

“ Court was a brother in-law who always made you feel loved when you visited with him. The first thing that came to my mind was him asking what kind of sandwich would you like and then rattle off the ham,ram,beef,butt or boar and then all the kinds of bread. Always could make anyone laugh at any time and then you realized your problems weren't as great after spending time with him. He will forever be missed, I miss him now.

“ I met Court Anderson in 1961, in Ft Wayne, Indiana where he was a LDS Missionary. I was working in Ft. Wayne and sharing an apartment with Judy and her sister Claire. We are cousins. Court and friends came to share their faith and the rest is history Judy moved to Utah and eventually married Court. I knew all those years ago she had found a keeper in Court. I have admired his kindness, faith, integrity for over 50 years. His stories and jokes are fond memories. Bless you and keep you Court! We will keep the lights on for ya!! Much love Sheila Smith
