“ I lived across the street from Don and Robin for several years in American Fork. Don was one of the nicest people I ever met. He always had a smile and a wave and was good to talk to. I'll never forget him or Robin. My heart goes out to you all.

“ Don is my little brother. He was born 13 months after me. Mom said he was the cuddly one. I was the independent one. I don't remember a time when he wasn't there. We didn't really hang out together--I had my girl friends and he had his buddies--but I remember punching him a lot--affectionately. I would give him back rubs. I would grind me knees into his back, punch him with my fists, and slam his head over and over into a pillow. He told me it really did relax him, once I stopped.

He joined the Navy and went to Vietnam. He came home on leave one time and showed me how they were taught to "iron" their clothes by smoothing them out with their hands. It was really impressive, although according to his family they didn't know he had that skill. He gained a love of boating from his Navy experience. He owned a boat for most of his adult life.

My kids have fond memories of Christmas parties at Don and Robin's house when they were growing up. Robin is a good entertainer and Don always made us feel welcome in his home. He watched out for me and my kids whenever he could. He always called me on my birthday and reminded me that I was the old one. I am going to miss that.

Don's health started failing him the last little while. It was very hard to see him struggle. I know he would have stayed if he could, but it was his time to go. I believe there are other things he needs to do right now. I know I will see him again. Bye for now little brother.

“ Don was my cousin. I spent a lot of time with Don, Robin, Heather and Britni growing up. I always enjoyed going boating with Don and being around his calm demeanor. I also remember the day he baptized me. They were a big part of my childhood and I will remember him always fondly for those days because they were happy.

“ I worked with Don at Sears in Provo while he was the Electrician and I was Loss Prevention. Then we worked at UTA , he as a bus driver, and me in Public Safety. Don and I could always have a good laugh about something everytime we saw each other. I will miss our handshakes and good laughs.
