“ We are so sad with the passing of Julie. What a grand lady. We so enjoyed our time being your neighbors and watching your young family grow and develop. We had so many wonderful memories of Julie and your family. Daron, sorry that we were unable to attend the viewing to be able to visit with each of you. We are grateful for the plan of happiness and all that entails We send you a hug Daron and please know that our prayers are with you. God Bless. Love, Connie and Bob Parsons

“ Thinking of you, Daron, and your family. Glad I was able to be your next door neighbor and then to have you move into my parent's home. Lots of memories of you and Julie, on your bikes, having fun chasing your kids, watching Julie so lovingly fix Karma's hair for her wedding, watching Q and Mitch having fun together, and still being good friends. That's what good friends are all about. I will always remember May 7th. I was excited to find out that Kelsey was sharing a birthday with me! Many more memories to think about. One of my faves is seeing how happy and carefree Julie was when she drove her little yellow bug, with top down, and very cool dark glasses on, smiling at everyone who waved at her.
My sincerest sympathies to all of you. Her light is not out, only dimmed, until you are re-united and it comes on bright again.

Sincerely,
Karol Palmer

“ I've tried to describe Julie to people who didn't know her, but how do you capture her in words? She was so vibrant, so full of light. One of my favorite things about Julie was when she would do that little "hop" of surprise and with a little gasp, maybe even put her hands on her hips. Can you picture it? :) Children adored her, which tells you a lot about a person (Sis BaLanc). One time in Primary a child tried to say "scriptures" but it came out "chippers", they were called "chippers" from then on. I catch myself calling them "chippers" and people look at me funny, but I quietly smile to myself and think of Julie. I will think of Julie often. She was a deeply spiritual person, very in tune with the promptings of the Holy Ghost. She served her family and friends well. I hope she knew (knows) how much we all love her. She was multi talented and willing to share those talents.
My sincere sympathies to her family.
We shall meet and laugh again sweet friend!!

“ Julie was a wonderful woman and a sincere friend. She was such an example to every one of us in the ward. She made me feel like I had a real friend in the ward; at church we talked about our nails and the new colors and designs we had tried, and in Sunday school she slipped me chocolate out of the blue. Seeing how much in love she was with Bishop and how much he loved her back was very touching and everyone was blessed by their example of a loving marriage. I'm forever grateful for Julie's friendship. Love you Julie

“ Every year before I went to girls camp, my mum would spend hours putting my whole hair in tiny braids, with colored beads everywhere
