“ My husband and I met Ron at the Coffee Garden, where he was a daily fixture. He fondly referred to it as “his office. “ Ron made many friends there. he always showed up looking sharp, which he took great pride in. We would tease that he was training the younger men how to dress and comport themselves. He spoke fondly of his sister and his nephews. We saw him struggle with his health issues and falls, but he always did it with dignity and was glad to be back at “his office “with his friends. Ron was a sweet soul and will be missed.
